Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 44-80 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 44-80 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Anandan et al. (U.S. PG Pub No. 2003/0021242) in view of Engelke (U.S. Patent 6,594,346).

The applied reference has a common inventors with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

4. As per claim 44 and 68, Anandan et al teach a system (fig 1) for providing personalized information (targeted electronic communication) to a user (Panel member, 700) in a commercial establishment, the system comprising at least one database storing information related to a user, a portable display unit operated by a user in a commercial establishment, the portable display unit having a unique identifier, and the portable display unit comprising a transceiver at least one database, a user interface, a display screen, a microprocessor, and at least one program executable by the microprocessor to enable the portable display unit to receive, store, and display information to a user in a commercial establishment a location tracking system to determine a location of the portable display unit in a commercial establishment, a server computer the server computer being in communication with the location tracking system and the at least one database and the server computer being configured to generate personalized information for a user in a commercial establishment based on the location of the portable display unit and the information related to a user stored in the at least one database; and at least one transceiver in communication with the server computer for transmitting the personalized information generated by the server computer to the portable display unit (see abstract, paragraphs 0003, 0007, 0009, 00011, 0012, 0013, 0026, 0027, 0028, 0035, 0037, 0041, 0043, 0044, 0062, 0065, 0069). Amanda et al fail to teach an inventive concept of providing a plurality of portable display units for use by a plurality of users in a commercial establishment and activating by a user a portable unit to operate in a commercial establishment by providing identifying information. However, Engelke teaches plurality of users in a commercial establishment and activating by a user a portable unit to operate in a commercial establishment by providing identifying information (see column 4 lines 39-5 lines 47). Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify inventive concept of Anandan et al to include Engelke's plurality of users in a commercial establishment and activating by a user a portable unit to operate in a commercial establishment by providing identifying information because this would have ensured on the spot communication between the user and the commercial establishment.

6. As per claim 46, 74, Anandan et al teach a system for providing personalized information wherein the information related to a user includes at least one of a demographic profile of the identified user and a shopping history of the identified user (see abstract, paragraphs 0003, 0007, 0009, 00011, 0012, 0013, 0026, 0027, 0028, 0035, 0037, 0041, 0043, 0044, 0062, 0065, 0069).
